Something to Sing About . . .

A look around Pendleton High can reveal many wonders. Whether observing all the educational courses and extracurricular activities offered, admiring the facilities and constructions that have grown considerably over the years, noticing the changes and additions in the school, or seeing the graduates receive their diplomas, you know these moments will be cherished and long remembered. Because we recognize these worthwhile opportunities, we, the students, know that we have — SOMETHING TO SING ABOUT.

The bright green shamrock outlined in gold on an oval, white background, which has been proudly worn by this year's juniors on their class rings, has been officially adopted as the School Crest.

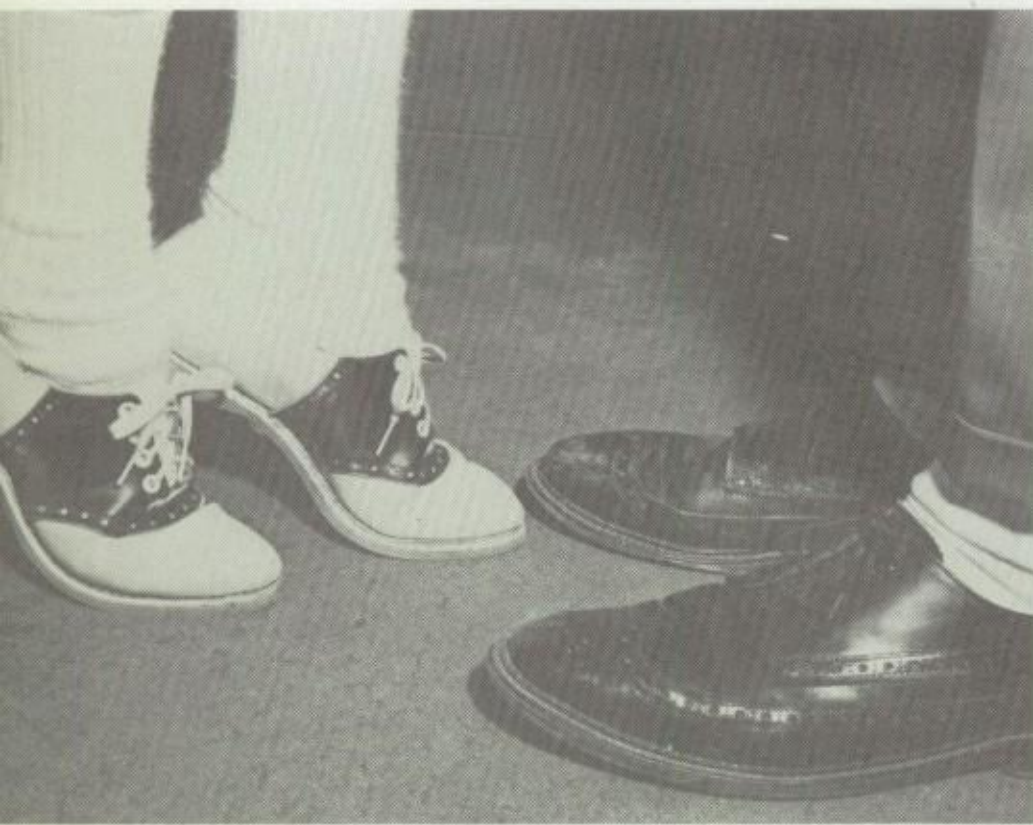

The Music Building, completed this spring, provides students with the facilities necessary for quality production in band and chorus. The floor and foundation were ready at the beginning of the school year and the students watched construction progress with interest.

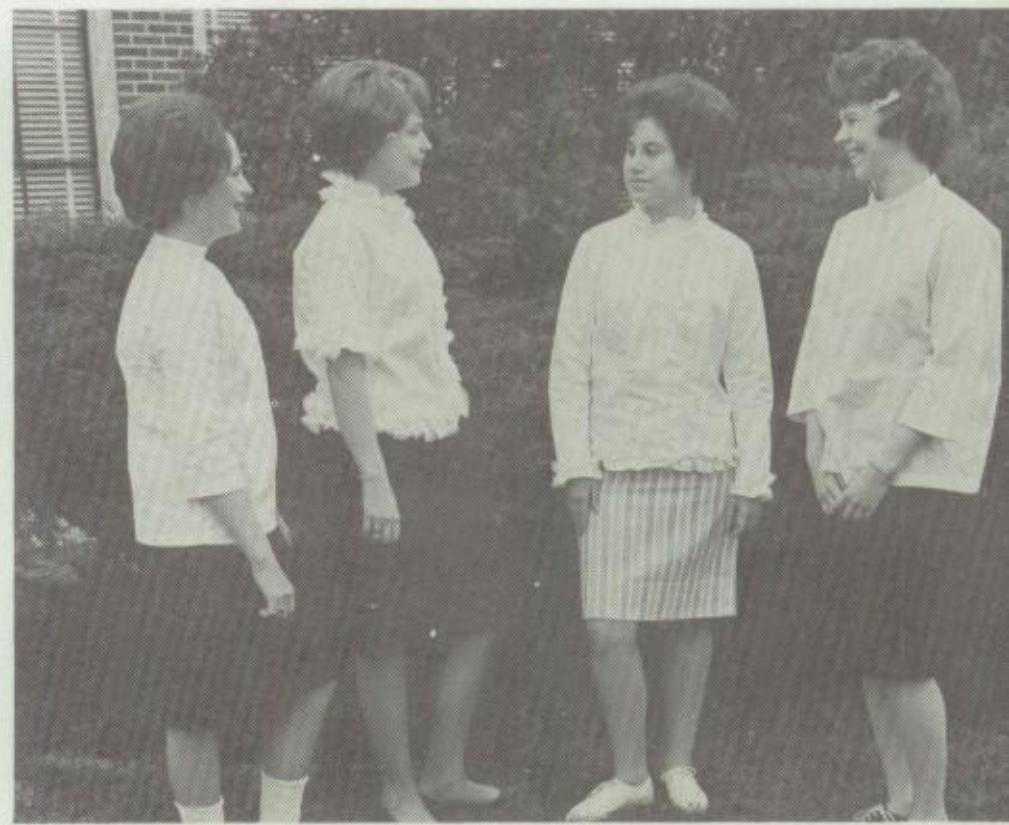

P.H.S. was literally bursting with pride because of the many honors and awards received by individuals from this school. Some of these were: Laureen Snodgrasse, Madison County essay contest winner; Doug Dixon, geometry contest runner-up in the District; Mary Lou Morris, County D. A. R. award; Alan Simmons, Bausch-Lomb award; and Mr. Ralph Bailey, Lily Foundation scholarship.

“Poofs,” Yankee Doodle Hats,

Good-night, sweetheart . . . well, it's time to go.

As in practically every school, P. H. S. had its Ben Casey admirers and Bandstand copies. Tanya Wimmer, Kathy Brown, Janeen Isaacs, and Peggy Miller kept abreast with the passing fancies.

Casey Blouses—Climax '62

Mix some way-out fads with several humorous and memorable, fun-filled escapades, add friends of all kinds, and you come up with the unique year of 1962. Fads came thick and fast as both girls and boys were ready, willing and able to keep old ones as well as accept new ones. For the girls, skirts stayed short, blouses got longer and longer, hair got "poofier," and bracelets got clankier. The boys had their fads, too, as they wore hats with a feather and trench coats while showing off their latest yo-yo tricks. At the record hops such crazes as the "twist," "cut-out," and "mashed potatoes" were quickly picked up by enthusiastic dancers. All in all, these little things, perhaps unimportant, helped to bring a note of originality to the year.

All set for a trip to the city are Jasper Cooter, Mike Hanna, Phil Honnold, Steve Miller, Jim Ifert.

Phil Mabrey heartily endorses the turn-about of Twirp Week as Jackie Owens carries his books to the locker.

Mr. Green and Miss Gold contestants sparked enthusiasm throughout the student body at sectional time.

Victory banners and green streamers gave confidence to the Irish.

Friendships, Fun and Dances—

If you have ever had the feeling of "plowing the sea," feel that way no more, for one-way stairs have done away with those annoying traffic jams.

People, people everywhere; and not a one to spare—happy ones, helpful ones, calm ones, shy ones, shrewd ones, friendly ones, funny ones—people and their personalities filled the school with animation and distinction outside the classroom as well as inside. Everyone from the quietest introvert to the noisiest extrovert could participate in one or many of Pendleton High's extra-curricular activities. In addition to being both satisfying and entertaining, these activities often provide the students with new friends, new abilities, and new interests.

... was the tune gayly hummed by amateur stars while trying to learn lines for the upcoming play. After overcoming such all-too-common theatrical hazards as forgotten lines, shaking hands, and weak knees, they managed to captivate the audience with convincing performances. They were well rewarded for their toil and trouble when the sounds of applause and money rang in their ears.

Artificial respiration from "The Unguided Miss" was the height of hilarity in the Senior Class Play.

Halloween, stage-fright, and "Terror in the Suburbs" gave Juniors many chilly moments.

The Dramatic Club provided laughs along with a moral in their Christmas presentation "Twas the Night Before Christmas."

IN STUDIES

Miss Borden smiles with pride at the birthday cake the office secretaries gave her.

A coke break in the lounge gives Mr. Hoover, Miss Blair, and Mrs. Mefford vitality to finish the day.

Mr. Miller efficiently takes over during the sickness of the physical education teacher.

While We Study, Teachers . . .

It just doesn't seem fair. We always thought teachers had it easy; and now we know they do. They eat cake, drink cokes and coffee, ride donkeys, and loaf. What a contrast with the world of education as it appears to Dave Jarrell on the opposite page.

Mr. Bailey and Mrs. Weaver discuss with Miss Tuttle, student teacher, the projects for the week.

An experiment in Psychology Class amazes some and fascinates others.

Curious Adventurers Explore Mind and World

Through the study of economic conditions, geographical conditions, and civilization, students of world geography realize and understand some of the causes of deep-rooted, world-wide problems which are so pressing today.

Other students, however, prefer to turn their attention to the perplexing problems of the mind. Psychology offers them a chance to analyze the causes of mental and emotional instabilities by studying the individual's environment, personality, character, and heredity. Mr. Hoover put psychology to work by allowing his students to examine the test questions before the test. For some psychological reason, these students found that this method did not raise their average.

A "pop" quiz in World Geography Class is exactly what no one was expecting.

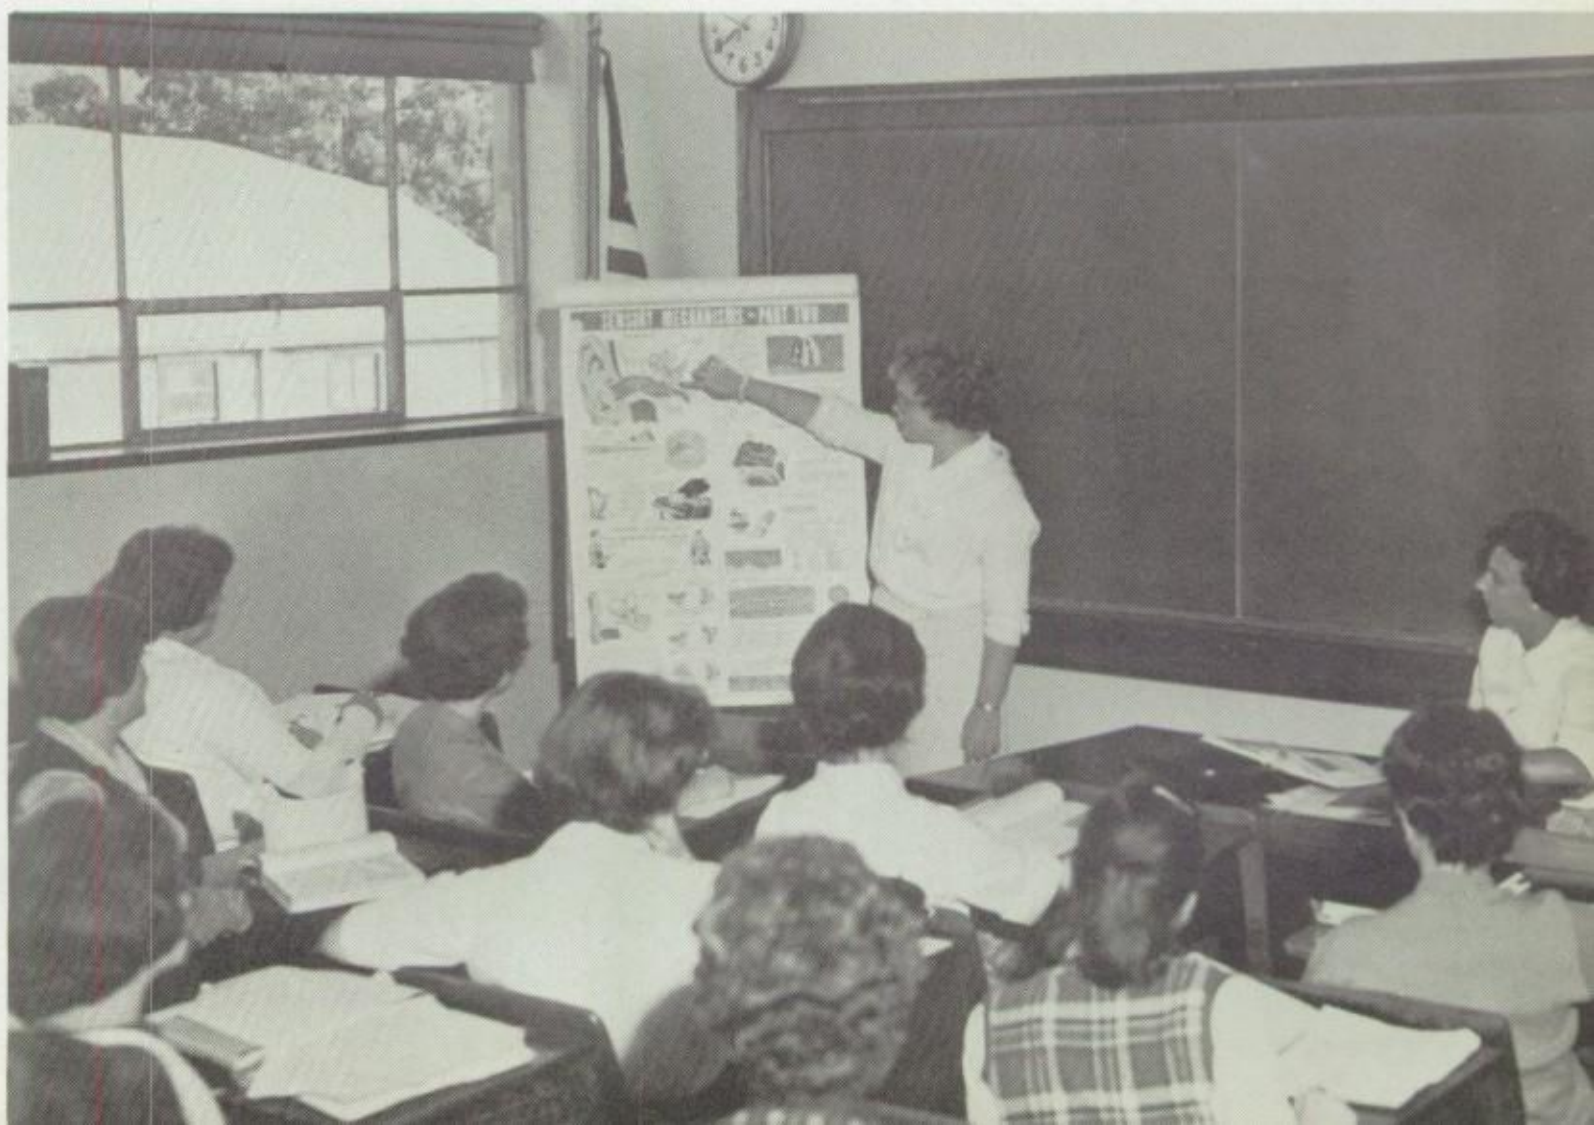

Some Become Anatomy "Artists"; Others Become Rapid Readers

Students who desire to increase their reading speed and comprehension can now do so in the speed reading course. The reading pacer and the tachistoscope, which can be set at different speeds to increase the reading rate, are excellent teaching devices.

Learning of the human body—its functions, the different parts, and why they operate the way they do — forms the fundamental background for the Health and Safety Classes of today.

All students are eager for an opportunity to participate in speed reading. Terry Snyder and Audrey Filbrun make use of the reading pacers.

Miss Wollert's Health and Safety Class study a chart on Sensory Mechanisms.

While Mr. Horvath gives an interesting lecture in biology, his class takes notes for further study.

Fumes, . . .

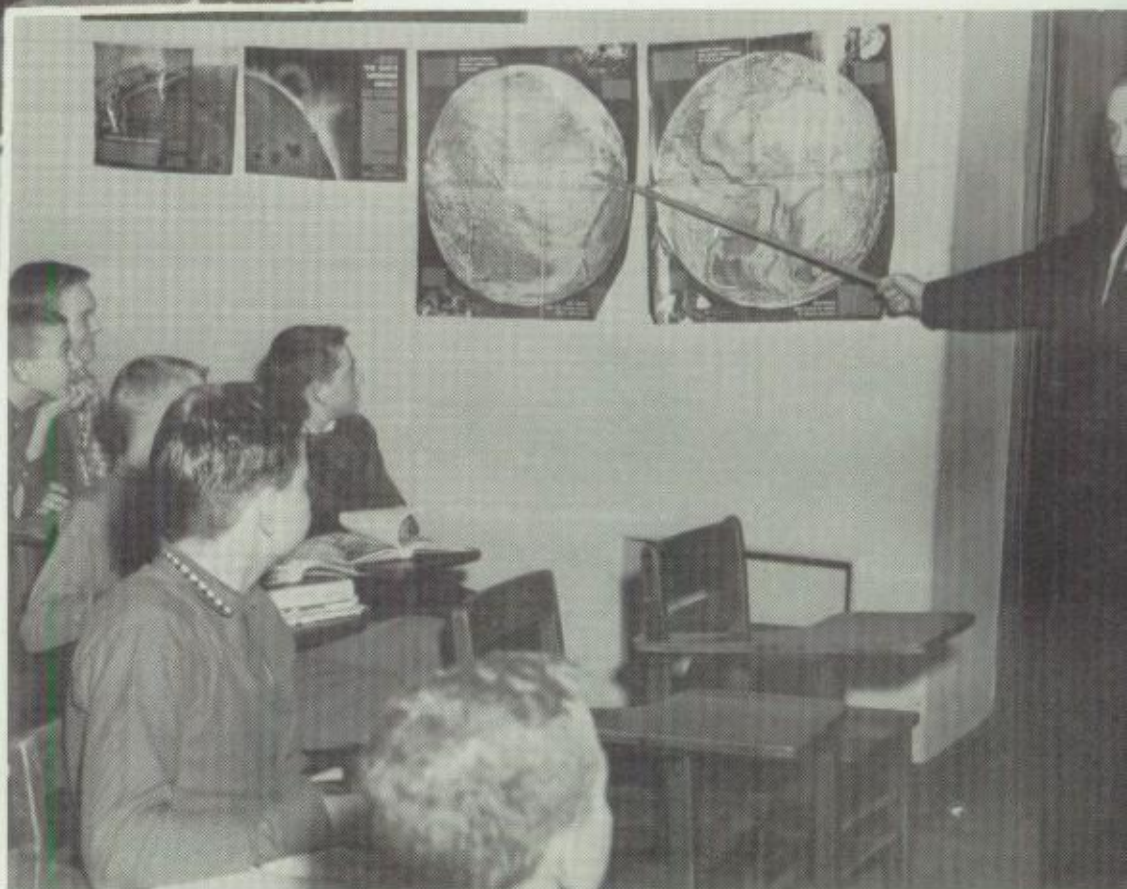

Biology, chemistry, and physics offer specialized training to students interested in science. Mr. Horvath instructs his students in dissecting a starfish; Mr. Wolf controls the explosions; and Mr. Berry avoids getting shocked on the Van de Graaff generator.

Science students worked hard toward their goal—a trip to Chicago. They became filled with anxiety as they boarded the bus on April 2. At the Shedd Aquarium, students saw underwater life; at the Planetarium, they viewed the heavens; and at the museums of Natural Science and Science and Industry, they discovered many facts they had read about in their texts.

Phil Morris and David Younts demonstrate the pull of gravity to an inquisitive group.

It isn't difficult to develop a yen for travel, especially after Mr. McCory describes the many lands of beautiful mountains, cool lakes, gentle breezes, and captivating people.

Odors, TIMES, Maps Fill Third Floor Classes

The social studies department makes use of such audio-visual equipment as films, film strips, slides, maps, charts, overhead projectors, tape recorders, and record players. Participation in the Model United Nations' General Assembly was open to all students in the department. The senior classes attended court sessions at the Madison County Court House.

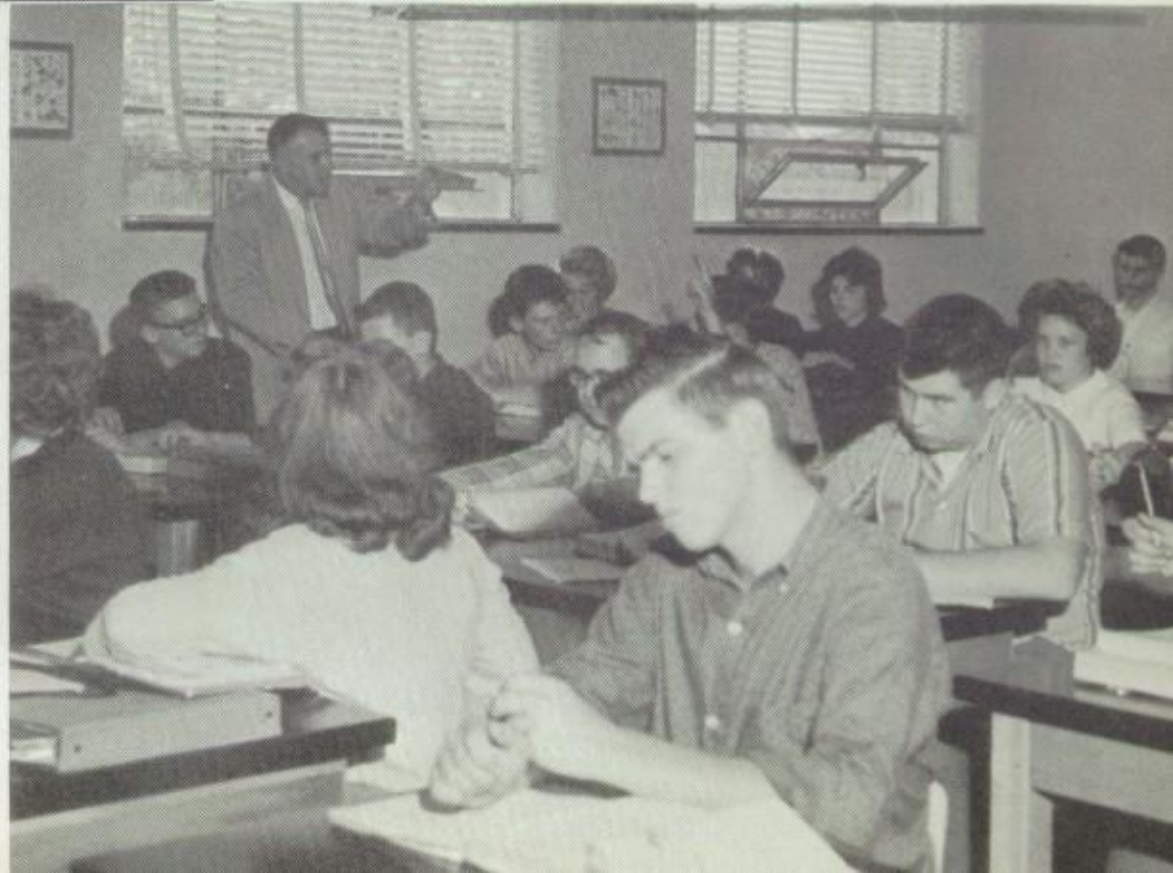

Watching his Sociology Classes board the bus for their trip to Anderson to visit Circuit Court, Mr. Bailey makes certain no enthusiastic member is left behind.

Students interested in social studies are offered a three-year course through which they gain a varied knowledge of political science. Although text books are given full use in the classrooms, the library facilities are a great help to students as they are required to do supplementary reading, to have an understanding of current, foreign, and domestic problems, and to write investigative reports and prepare special projects.

The early life of the United States has particular significance for members of the eighth grade History Class.

Students in World History Class learn about the beginning and advance of civilization.

“Progress Is

Because four years of English is required for graduation, the department has strived to make this subject interesting and fruitful for all students. Through the efforts of the instructors, a constant repetition of grammar has given way to more time for literature, creative writing, and public speaking. This year English 11 classes climaxed their study of journalism by touring the Anderson Newspapers and several members of the Speech class went to Lafayette for the Purdue Student Assembly and Speech Contest.

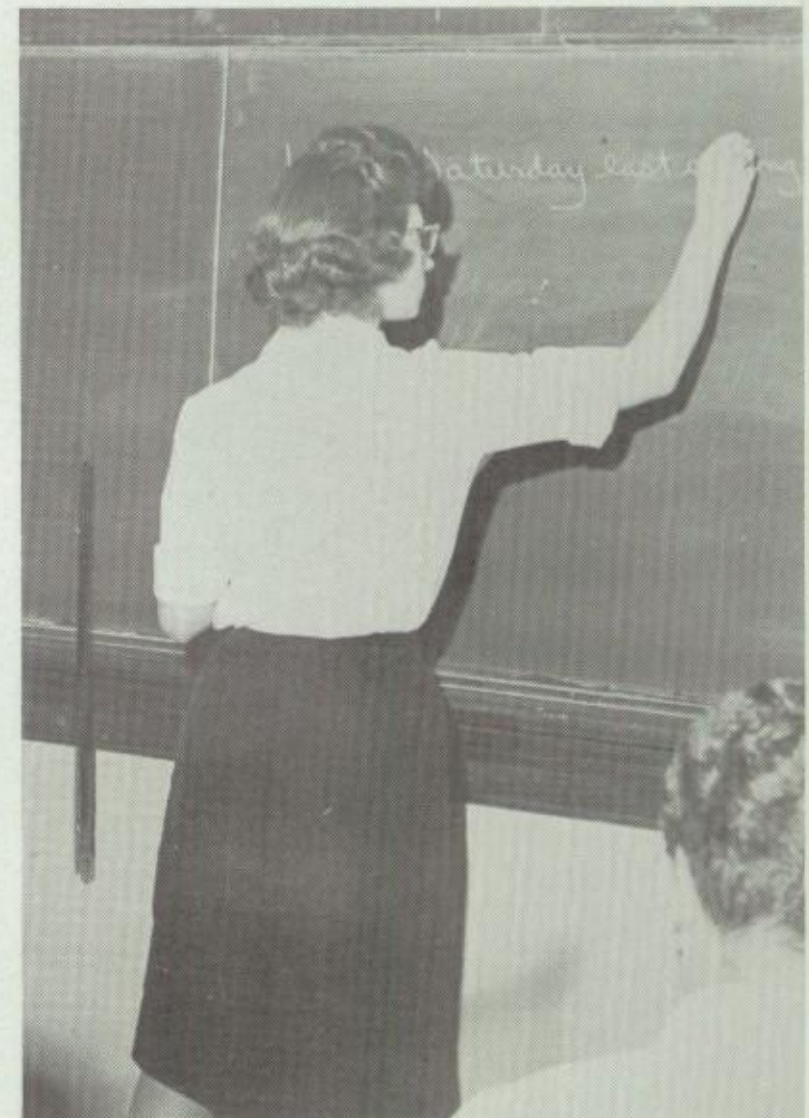

With a good basis in English, many students desire to study Spanish. Second-year Spanish students edited and published their own newspaper which illustrated their working knowledge of the language.

While in Spanish Class, Linda Fraley and Margaret Leahy get a chance to hear their own voices.

Showing what he would do if Krushchev were there, Jerry Sloan pantomimes for Speech Class.

Their Most Important Product"

With her students poised for action, Mrs. Eley prepares to give another age problem.

Marlyn Jones and Don Craig use a compass to demonstrate the definitions of the trigonometric functions.

Figuring interest on savings is important to Bob Eley as he waits patiently for the answer.

"Cutting the cone with a plane could produce a parabola," explains Mr. Berry to his plain geometry class.

Studying the transaction, Dave Elder decides there should be a debit to Purchases and a credit to Cash. Bookkeeping students learn the necessity of neatness and accuracy.

Shorthand classes master the art of writing shorthand instead of drawing shorthand. Stressing proportion, Mrs. Wynant demonstrates brief forms to beginning students.

“Practice Makes Perfect” Is the Motto of

High school graduates many times are found employed in the commercial field. Bookkeeping, two years of shorthand and typing, and secretarial training provide these students with a sound business background. A field trip to the bank in Bookkeeping Class and a trip to Delco

Remy in Shorthand and Typing gave students an opportunity to see the environment in which they might some day find themselves. In these courses they are given the knowledge and skill they need to be a successful career woman or career man.

Spying a line in the wrong place, Gary Godbey suggests to Charles Goyette how the error could be corrected.

Inky fingers mean nothing to an aspiring young secretary. Joy Roehler considers changing a ribbon an essential part of her training.

A smile creeps over the face of Dennis Robinson as he figures the percentage of sales in his workbook. General Business provides basic training for future commerce courses.

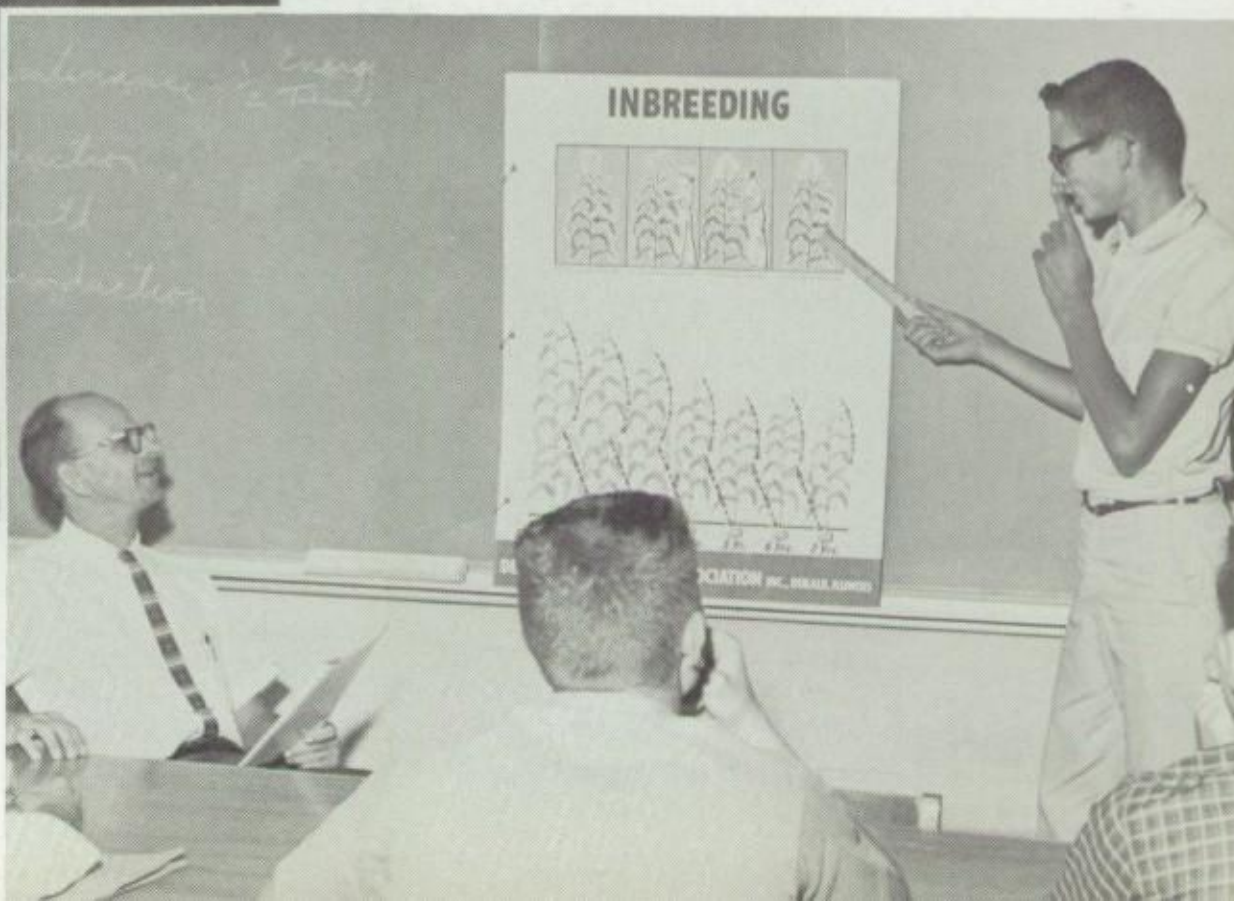

Vocational Trainees.

Cutting metal with a torch fascinates John Cloud and David Dowden. Fred Aldred is more than pleased to demonstrate his ability in shop.

Boys who graduate with a knowledge of shop skills, architectural plans, agricultural programs, and business are able to enter the world with their eyes open. Even if they don't become great draftsmen or mechanics, they can be a handy-man around the home.

In Agriculture Class, Larry Campfield explains the process of inbreeding two kinds of grain. Mr. Wolf stands by to approve Larry's explanation.

Students Struggle with Cakes,

Following the pattern lines proves to be fun and a good test for three home economics students; Karen Sue Miller, Rhoda Wilson, and Anita Owen.

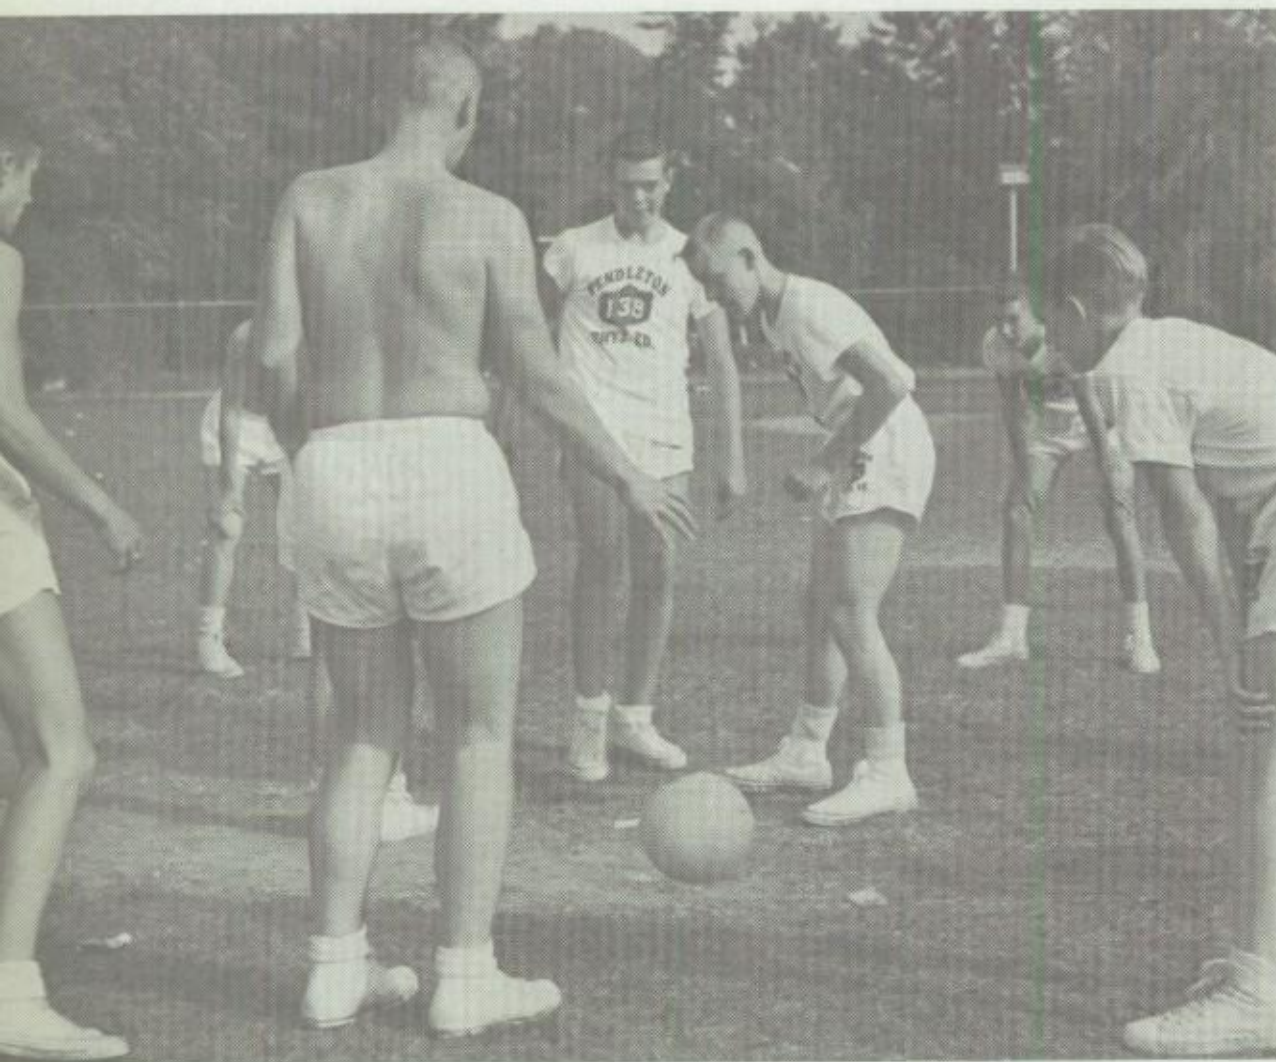

Wet hair, "quickie showers," and aching muscles became routine with physical education students, but they soon began to enjoy such newly learned sports as basketball, baseball, softball, volleyball, and tumbling.

After inexperienced homemakers advanced beyond the stage of scorched food and broken needles, they became basically skilled in the fundamentals of managing a home and family.

The work of the printing "trainees" proved to be to the advantage of the citizens of P. H. S. as they printed the all-important passes, absence slips, and tickets for most of the class and organization functions.

Art and music give students a chance to express themselves and to develop their talents. Many art students took field trips to the John Herron Art School in Indianapolis, and band students entered in contests at Purdue, Ball State, and Butler. Whether trying for the right tone or searching for the right angle, boys and girls appreciate their opportunity to become experienced musicians and artists.

The proper way of printing bulletins is demonstrated by Steve Young, as Dave Dowden, Monty Reger, and Steve Bennett observe.

The boys wait for the signal as they prepare to rush the ball.

Aches, Signs, and Lines

Students in Mr. Swander's Art Class learn the technique of modern painting.

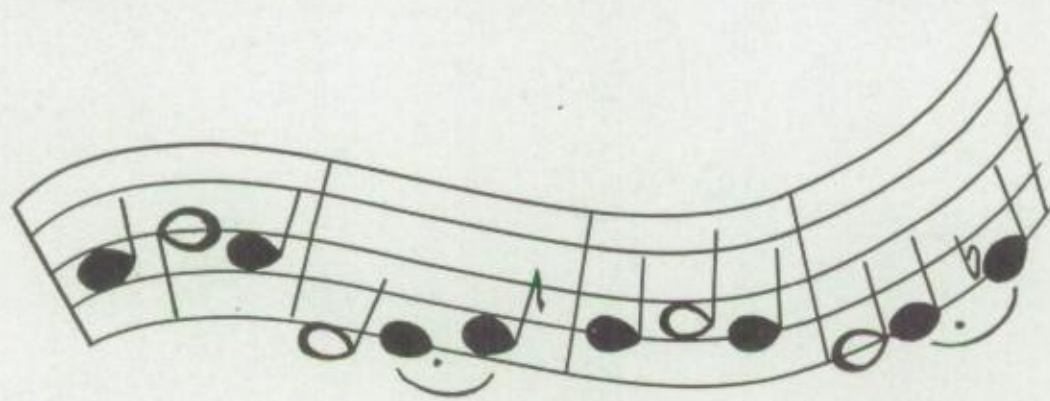

Driver Training students are made to realize the responsibility they undertake in driving an automobile. The six hours of car instruction include driving in all weather conditions and traffic conditions.

The motor of the Chevy holds the attention of Marvin Lane, Dick Myers, Kenny Miller, and Stanley Lay, as Mr. Keithley emphasizes the fine points.

Band members glow with pride as they inspect the attractive new music building.

As captain Phil Mabrey watches, Mr. Carey presents Bill Kirby with the Most Valuable Player Award.

The 1961-62 baseball season, thought by many to be a year for rebuilding, brought on a happy surprise to Irish fans as the club finished with a fine 4-2 record. Under the direction of Coach Jim Carey, the team tied for second place in White River Conference standings, but not before giving Frankton a battle for first place. The team selected Phil Mabrey as captain and Bill Kirby as the most valuable player, both of whom were chosen to the all-conference team.

Two recently new sports at P.H.S., wrestling and golf, have become increasingly popular. Coached by Dick McCory, the wrestling squad began building a solid foundation for the future. Sixteen boys matched their strength and endurance against such experienced schools as Ben Davis, Madison Heights, Decatur, and Hancock Central. Although they were unable to pull out a victory, they are looking forward to next year when their added experience and know-how will aid them tremendously.

Last season Dick Keithley's newly added golf team came out on top with an excellent record of four wins and three losses. This year, the team had ten matches with such schools as Marion, Noblesville, Highland, Elwood, and Broad Ripple. They finished the season with a sectional at Anderson.

Harriers and Cinder Crew Highlight Year

The Pendleton Irish track team defended its White River Conference Crown by taking five firsts and a number of seconds and thirds for a total of 94 points. Their host and closest rival, Frankton, finished with 81½ points.

Phil Mabrey, who has yet to be beaten, tossed the shot put 49 feet and 9 inches, over 3 feet farther than the previous conference record.

Mike Hanna also set a new pole vault record with a jump of 11-11, ten inches over the old conference record.

In the sectional at Ball State, Virgil Bankson placed first in the mile, Phil Mabrey first in the shot put, and Mike Hanna second in the pole vault. This qualified these boys to represent Pendleton in the regional at Indianapolis.

The Cross Country harriers came out on top again this year, capturing the WRC meet for the second time in a row. Other highlights of the season were placing second in the Southport Invitational, third at Shortridge, and fourth in the Sectional. Steve Young was chosen the most valuable runner for the second straight year.

Voted as cross country's most valuable runner, Steve Young smiles happily as he receives the award from Mr. Keithley for the second time in two years.

"Hey, get the tip," say the Irish fans as they encourage Phil Honnold.

Various degrees of excitement are displayed on the bench.

Superior Skill and Dauntless Spirit

Sporting the best record compiled by an Irish team since 1950, the Irish squad came on strong this year to win 14 of 22 games. Defeated in first session play of the invitational tourney by Markleville, the Irish rallied full force in the county tourney to defeat Frankton and Markleville, only to be upset by St. Mary's by two points.

The "Fightin' Irish" recovered and entered sectional play a month later with high hopes. These were not to be crushed. After Elwood fell victim to the Irish in the first contest, semi-final play found them opposing a team they had long desired to challenge - the Anderson Indians. At the end of regulation time the score was deadlocked at 52 all. Two field goals for the Irish and one field goal and a charity toss kept the scoreboard balanced as the first overtime ended. However, officials detected a foul on a Pendleton player, and Anderson stepped to the line to connect for the sectional victory.

Perhaps the most outstanding feat accomplished by the Irish was winning the White River Conference by being undefeated in the seven games of WRC play. On February 14 the team set a new school record by scoring 96 points in a single game.

Phil Mabrey, Phil Honnold, and Jon Crosley were elected to the All-Conference Team.

Young Irish Prepare for Future Events

With Kent Underwood and Gary Godbey leading the way with 135 and 104 points the Freshmen team compiled a fine record of 10 wins against 6 losses. Coach Keithley had three other players scoring more than fifty points.

One of the high points of their season was winning the Frankton Tourney by defeating Summitville 26 to 22 and Highland 25 to 22 to come up with the trophy.

Reserve: B. Pettigrew, S. Savill, P. Gardner, and J. Young.

Many people do not realize the time and effort spent in making our cheerleaders the best. Eighth-grade, freshmen, and reserve cheerleading gave the experience needed for a good varsity squad.

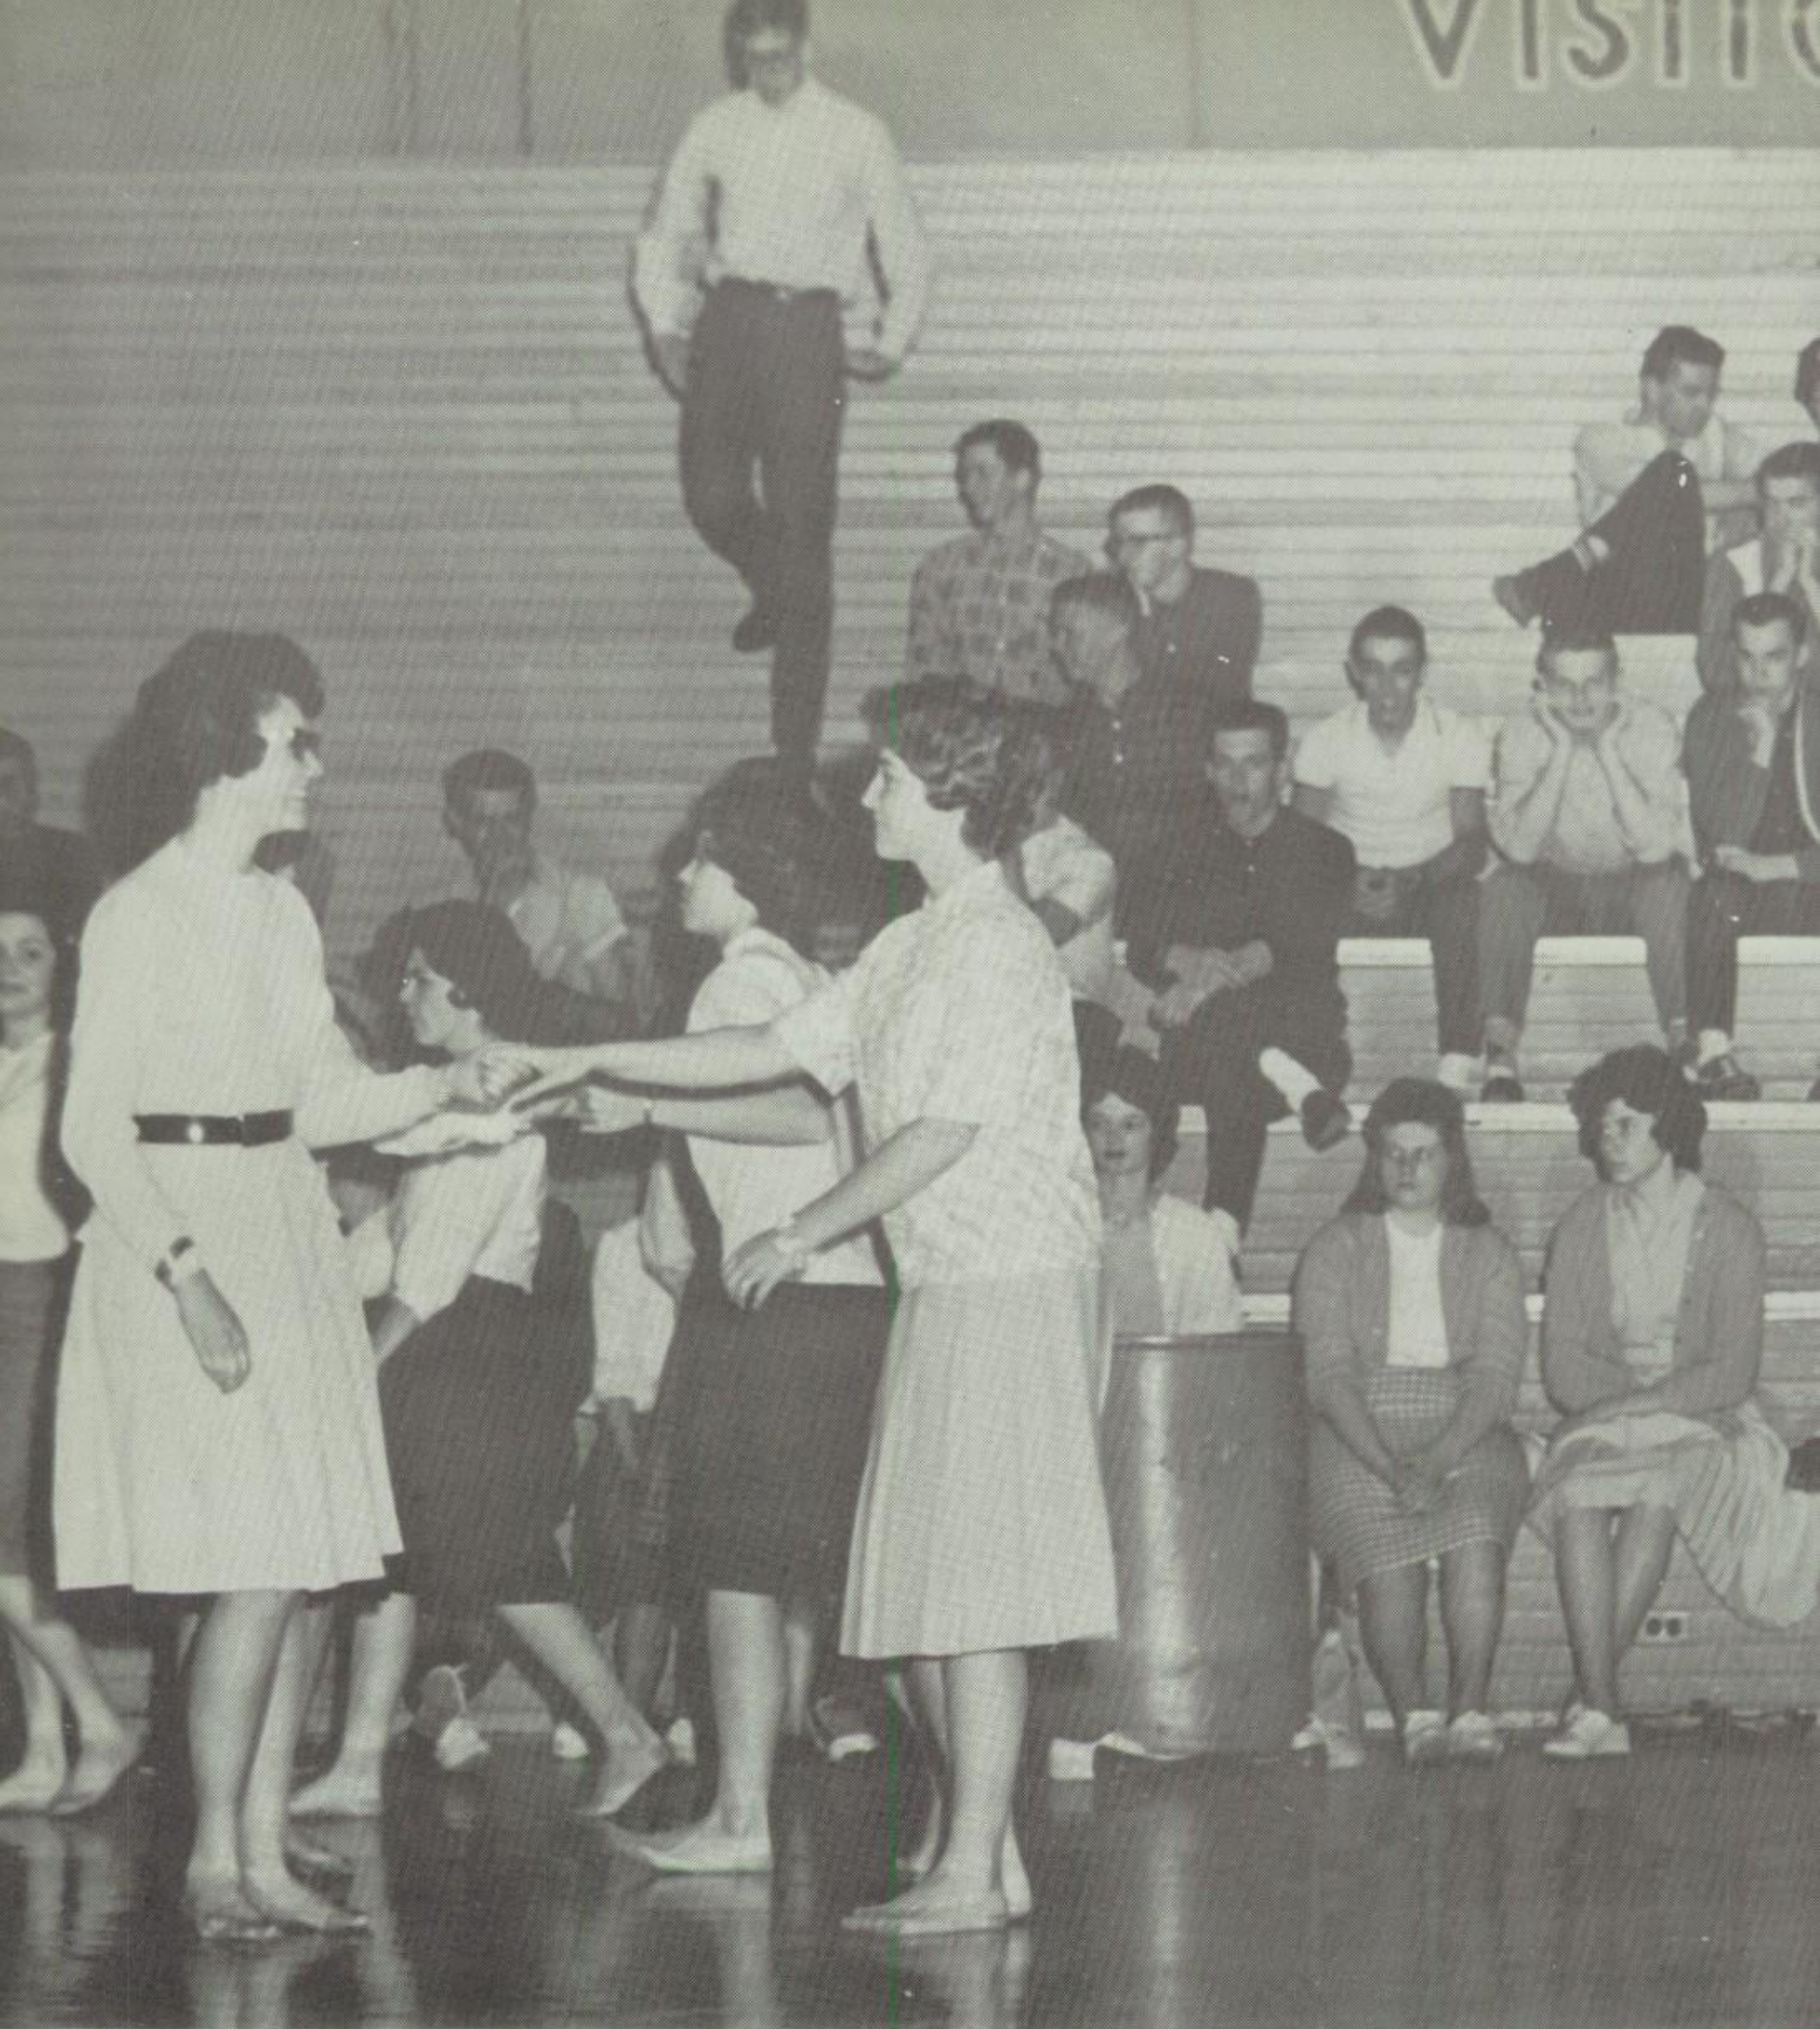

The varsity cheerleaders attended Smith-Walbridge camp last summer where they were in competition with yell-leaders from all over the United States. They received several high ratings in some of these contests and developed the poise and knowledge desired to become a good cheerleader. The varsity and reserve attended a conference held at Indiana University in October.

Council Selects School Crest and Mascot

"One of these days we've got to get organized!" has been the cry of Student Council members for many years. Under the capable leadership of Pam Wellons, president, and Mr. Hoover, adviser, this year's Council has come a long way in meeting this ideal.

Decorating Christmas trees has been a project of the student governing body that has annually gone by scarcely noticed; but when members of the Student Council entered the school at the crack of dawn on the morning of Pendleton's sectional play and ran streamers of green and gold across the halls, the entire body stood up and took notice. The Student Council emphasized that all that glittered was not gold on Green and Gold Day, for glittering along with Mr. Gold, Bob Ruff, was Miss Green, Susie Hammond.

Throughout the year the Student Council organized convocations and kept the students interested in their own class elections by helping hopeful candidates conduct vigorous campaigns.

Other officials were Steve Young, vice-president, and Norma Stephenson, secretary-treasurer.

“To Share and Serve” . . .

Acknowledging the great value in service to others, the Hi-Y is an organization of which the school can rightfully be proud. The Club, founded in the virtue of charity, sponsored a “line of dimes” in order to present two Christmas food baskets to needy families in the community. In addition, the Hi-Y made a donation to the National Polio Foundation.

Advancing Christian character to the sixty-five members of the club were: Steve Young, president; Byron Rider, vice-president; Jim McLaughlin, secretary-treasurer; Mike Smith, sergeant-at-arms; Ricky Slack, chaplain, and Mr. Robertson, adviser.

The annual Sunshine-Hi-Y Christmas dance, Winter Wonderland, was highlighted by the crowning of the king and queen. The candidates were Dennis Latour, Marilyn Jones, Virgil Bankson, king, Linda Robinson, queen, Eston Rohr, and Pam Blueher. Susan Weaver and Steve Young, presidents of both clubs, presented the crowns.

The Sound of Music Fills Our Days

Our days were filled with the sound of music—the chorus with voices in sweet melody, the band with the blare of the brass and thunder of the drums, the Triple Trio, Irishettes, dance band, singing, strutting, sounding long into the night. All joined together for the fourth annual Variety Show and offered the entire school something to sing about.

“With Love in My Heart and Charity”

The Christmas spirit is reflected in their faces as Joe Mollenkopf and Cheryl Kirby arrive at the annual Sunshine-Hi-Y Christmas Dance.

Sunshine members carried out their theme each month by placing in their crown a gem symbolizing a special quality the girls desired to possess. The gem for October, for instance, was the topaz, signifying individualism. Several girls held a mock trial illustrating certain undesirable characteristics. Guest speakers brought out other themes of the year. During the all-school “Twirp Week” girls carried books for the boys, escorted them to classes, and as a climax to the

Inspiring Girls Mix Fun with Service

Careless students who tossed candy wrappers, test papers, love notes, and old copies of the News of the Week in Review on the campus owe a great deal of thanks to the Sunbeam girls for taking the responsibility of keeping the lawn litter free.

Tri-Hi-Y became a part of the school this year under the guidance of Mrs. Holdeman.

By sponsoring two service projects throughout the year, the members were able to reap the joys of giving to charity; and, in order to raise funds to further their cause, they sponsored a "Peppermint Twist" record hop in March. One of the social events of the club was the swimming party in April.

Cataloguing books, typing overdue notices, hunting for lost books, and placing books on the shelf in the right order, are all a small part of running an efficient library. Miss Blair gives many students the opportunity to receive satisfaction and experience by aiding a bewildered Eighth-Grader or some over-worked Senior in finding the specific reference for health or sociology.

‘Knowin’ and ‘Sewin’ Are Familiar Terms

Members of the local 4-H clubs found little time for boredom during the months between May and August, for they diligently worked on their projects for the County and State Fairs.

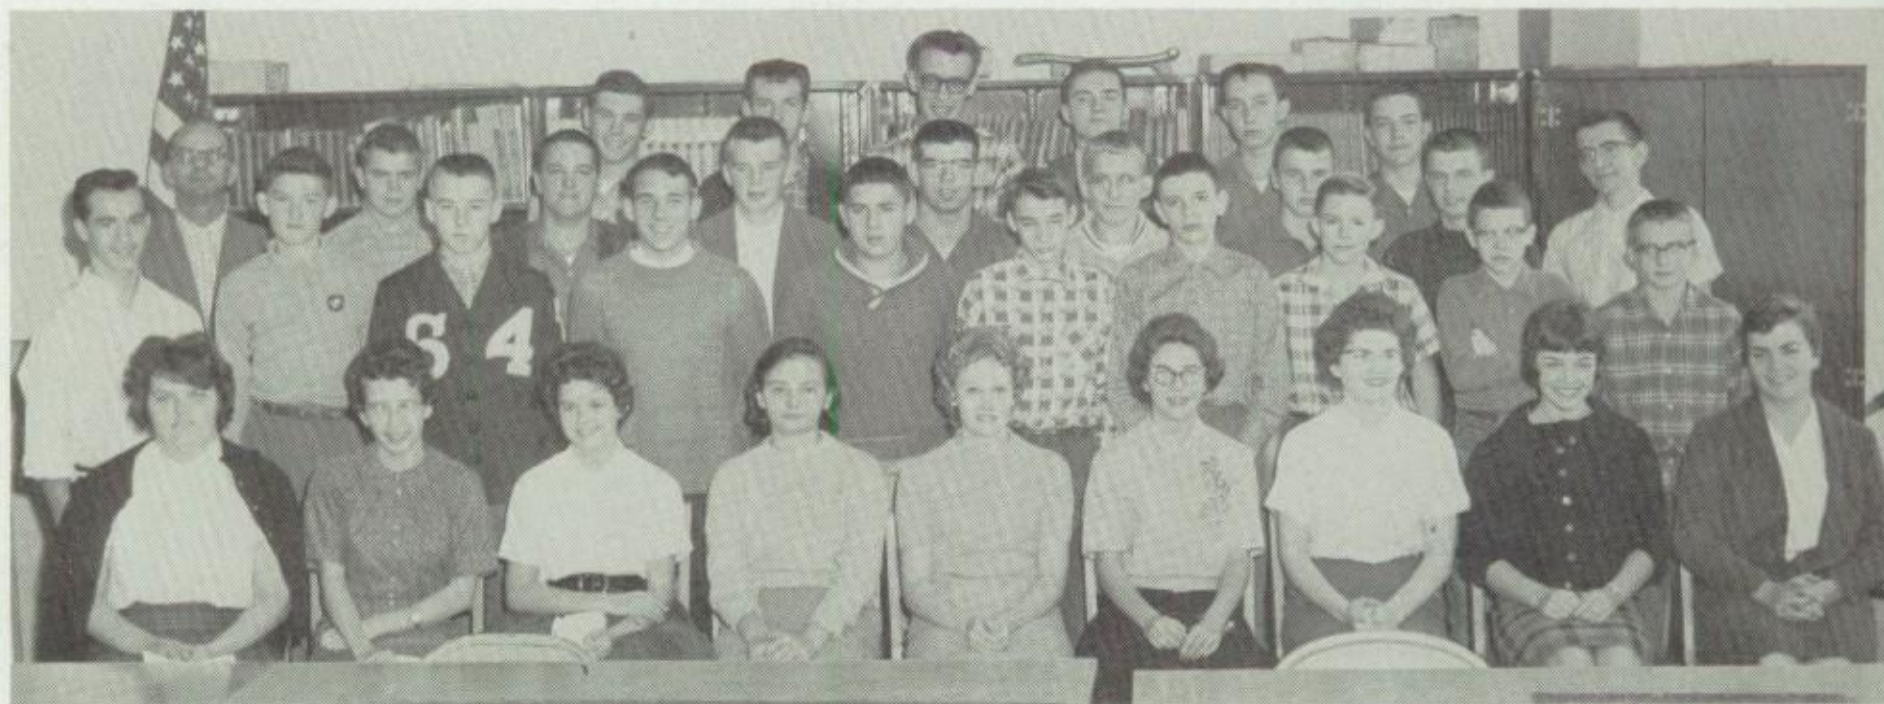

Girls’ 4-H boosted their treasury by sponsoring two successful projects which enabled them to purchase necessary equipment for the club. The Senior Pic Kwick boasted four blue ribbon winners and one championship winner at the county style show.

Under the expert assistance of Mr. Wolf, members of the 4-H Senior Agricultural Club raised and bred livestock which they later showed at the County and State Fairs.

During spring vacation the members of Future Farmers of America went to the Indianapolis Stockyards and Meat Packing Plant for an educational trip. They also competed in livestock and dairy judging contests during the year. Members conducted supervised farm programs as a supplement to classroom work.

"I like this one, but this one is good, too." Serious decisions, such as which pictures to choose, constantly plague annual staff members Mary Leahy, Susan Weaver, Cue Ling Loy, Carol Brattain, and Karon McCrory, editor.

Filled with humor, gossip, class and club news, and other timely features, the school magazine, the Pen, was published four times throughout the year for the enjoyment of the student body and faculty members. With a nose for news and a sharp eye for stories, the Pen Staff recorded memorable and candid glimpses of school life.

Students who stayed up many evenings to watch old John Barrymore movies on the Late

Sports, World Affairs, Spur Enthusiastic Goers

Politically-minded students united this year to form the International Relations Club, which prepared them for the challenge of leading the nation through the last half of the Twentieth Century. Attempting to impress upon their classmates the value in understanding the people of other nations, I R C members held two informal discussion periods with foreign exchange students, Jeanne Korteweg of Holland and Ttareu Umegu of Japan. Several members participated in the Model United Nations.

In order to become more physically fit, many girls participated in Girls' Athletics. After four years of hard play at general meetings, play days and camp-outs, Barbara Myers, Sara Stoner, Linda Robinson, Karon McCrory, Sue Rogers, and Suzon Hart earned enough points to win state plaques. Senior award blazers were presented to Barbara Myers and Sara Stoner.

Students Discover It's Always Best To Try

One of the most coveted honors at Pendleton High School is membership in the National Honor Society. Membership is based on scholarship, character, leadership, and service. Students of the organization are active in many school functions and rank in the upper third of their class.

Nineteen were initiated on January 19, 1962.

The Top Ten of 1962 were honored at a dinner given by the Pendleton Chamber of Commerce on May 3. Mr. Harland White, Director of Admissions at Purdue University, spoke on "The Challenge of Education."

The Pendleton Chamber of Commerce held the first of these honorary dinners in the spring of 1959 in order to inspire students to develop and utilize their abilities.

Journalists Receive Recognition

The annual Quill and Scroll dinner and initiation were held April 11 at the Colonnade in Alexandria. Thirteen members from the Pen and Papyrus Staffs were inducted as members. Requirements for membership are: rank in the upper third of the class, excellence in some phase of journalism, and recommendation from both their adviser and the executive secretary of the national organization.

Supervision Proves Essential by "Pulling

Checking a full calendar, Superintendent Smith prepares for another busy day.

Answering calls is just one of the daily tasks of Mrs. Haner, secretary, as she also proceeds with the typing, bookkeeping, and other details.

The goal of a school administrator is to prepare the students for their adult life. In keeping with this goal, Mr. Harold Smith, Superintendent of Schools, has made many efforts to establish an intellectual and cultural environment in the Pendleton Schools through newly constructed buildings and improved educational aids.

With the approval of the Board of Education, Mr. Smith makes many decisions necessary for attaining the high ideals set up by the community.

Things Through" Smoothly and Accurately

In case of emergency, students learn what to do by becoming familiar with the practice of a fire drill.

The important function of policy-making is left to the Board of Education. This vital branch of the school system has made many achievements in the improvement of school facilities with the completion of the elementary building and the music building. The School Board represents the interests of the entire community in the school.

Announcing meetings of the many clubs is a pleasant task for Mr. Miller, principal.

Preparing for a busy month, Miss Borden, assistant principal, checks the school calendar to avoid conflicts.

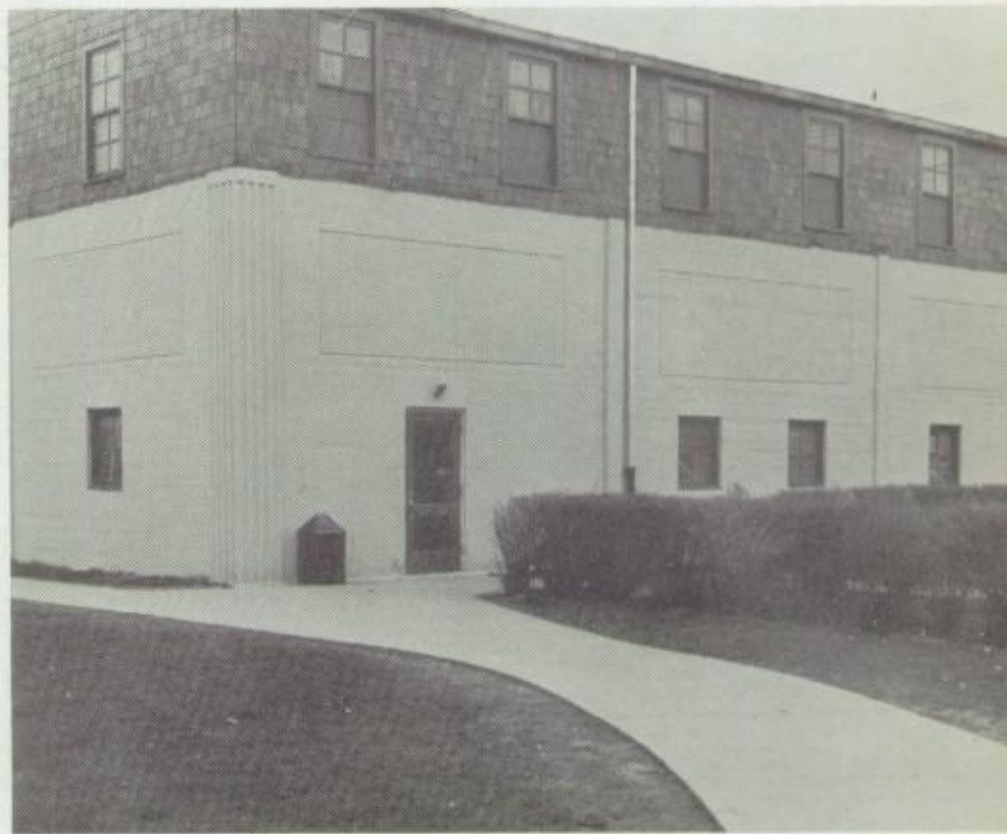

Always willing with a welcoming smile, Mrs. Reighard, secretary, checks the cash balances of the school organizations.

and Skillfully Perform Their Many Duties

Supervising the curricula, extra-curricula, and disciplinary measures involving students, overseeing an efficient staff of faculty members, counselling with innumerable parents, and keeping in touch with community affairs are just a few of Mr. Ernest Miller's official duties as principal. As administrative head of the high school, Mr. Miller strives daily to produce graduates who are not only well-adjusted but also intelligent and responsible individuals.

The high standards maintained by the athletes in the school are set up and enforced by the Athletic Board. In cooperation with the Indiana High School Athletic Association, the Board contributes an important part to high school athletics.

Painting of the gym added a new and refreshing look to the school grounds.

Instructing, Guiding, Serving, Helping,

Even though some students might disagree, teachers are the basic structure of an educational system. Without them, a school would be a mass of chaos and confusion. Through their efforts to teach, to guide, and to encourage we are able to become, we hope, responsible citizens of the United States.

Many teachers go further in the realm of education by sponsoring various organizations and classes. Teachers, as sponsors or instructors, play a very important role in the lives of many people.

We have crossed the rivers; we have gone from lollipops to exchanging steady rings every two months. We expectantly have searched for our names in the Pen, and we have stretched our necks to see what others had signed in our annuals. We have acquired certain status symbols: honor society and student council pins, play books, athletic letters and jackets, band and chorus medals. We have suffered before - test blues and rallied at after-game victories. We have spent our week - ends comparing prom dates with the friends we would never replace. We have laughed uproariously at things that weren't really funny; and when we stand with our classmates for the last time and transfer our tassels from one side of our caps to the other, some of us will cry.

But the seas lie ahead: the mind's a gold mine and we will keep digging.

Coping with Smashed Test Tubes, Reports,

The Juniors began an active year by presenting their class play, "Terror in the Suburbs." Meanwhile, many Juniors were practicing their own kind of terror in the chemistry lab, as others had moments of terror while typing the home row or learning brief forms in shorthand. Their terror went from the classroom to the ballgames as Junior concession workers dodged excited spectators, mopped spilled cokes, and induced fans to buy popcorn while they fumbled for change in battered cups. Terror remained the keyword for the year, and it ceased only when Prom plans were completed on May 18. The upperclassmen, transformed into natives of the South Seas for a "Polynesian Paradise," were more than ready for the summer ahead.

The success of the Junior Class was due partly to the leadership and ability of the class officers and sponsors: Jeanne Brown, secretary; Mrs. Holdeman, sponsor; Kathy Rector, vice-president; Virgil Bankson, treasurer; Allan Baker, president; and Mr. Keithley, sponsor.

Energetic Sophomores Master Arts of

Waiting anxiously for the first signs of winter, the Sophomores finally revealed their navy and white class sweaters at the Fall Festival in September. They also elected their steering committee in that month and began planning for the year. Periodically Sophomores were seen going in and out of the License Bureau, and their driver's manual became one of their prize possessions, until it was inevitably taken by one of their teachers. The Sophomores were very proud of the fine record the B-team made during basketball season, and they were particularly proud of having a member of their class participate on the varsity squad. The sponsors gave a great sigh of relief when their major class project—entertainment and supper between tourney games—proved to be a success. Activities at the end of the year were three-fold—the Sophomores chose their class rings, threw a memorable class party, and delivered their campaign speeches as they ran for class offices for the approaching year.

Squinting from the glaring sun, the Sophomores enjoyed the last days of Indian Summer. As they lingered for a few more minutes before entering the building, they secretly wished they could have remained outdoors.

Inexperienced Freshmen Invade P.H.S.

Pausing at their lockers for a brief meeting, the Freshmen Class officers and sponsors discuss an immediate problem. They are Miss Hargett and Miss Wollert, sponsors; Janice Ann Fisher, president; Cara Lou Brown, secretary; Tim Craig, treasurer; Roger McCarty vice-president; and Mr. Horvath, sponsor.

Little did the Freshmen of 1962 realize that many upperclassmen were envious of them as they recalled the freedom they once enjoyed, and as they remembered the Freshman as a happy year—a year of joy, a year of anticipation, and a year of resolutions. Of course the “frosh” had trials to face and complaints to voice, but these were short lived, and they soon went back to being young and liking it. They elected their class officers; they fought teachers and one-way stairs; they won a tourney; they craved varsity sports; they attended a fabulous class party; they debated the color of their sweaters; and, as they started their climb up the ladder, they recognized that they were just on the first step.

Eighth Graders Sample High School Life by

Members of the Eighth Grade started their first semester in the high school building with the perplexing problem of combination locks and one-way traffic, which inevitably made them late for class. In addition to forming their own glee club, the members participated in class elections, in Junior High sports, and in many other activities. Early in the second semester they were reluctantly transferred to the north grade school building, where they were upper-classmen once again and reigned over the seventh grade. They were in a class by themselves—too old for elementary school and too young for senior high. The Eighth Grade play day revived their spirits, and they ended their year with jubilation.

Looking to their president, Sally Hopkins, for leadership are Penny Rumler, secretary; Rick Morris, treasurer; Mike Neely, vice-president; and Mr. Robertson, Mrs. Tice, and Mr. McCory, sponsors.

When one-way traffic on the stairs was introduced this year, being late to class was no longer a great worry to Penny Rumler, Cindy King, and Sharon Smelser.

September means "fun time" as the Pendleton merchants provide for the Annual Fall Festival. Crowning of the queen was a highlight of the festivities. The candidates were: S. Higginbotham, M. Blakeney, S. Morris, J. Sears, J. Aiman, S. Stoner, P. Blueher, queen; L. Pettigrew, R. Lewark, P. Widener, and B. Ginley.

OPPORTUNITIES UNLIMITED FOR INQUIRING MINDS

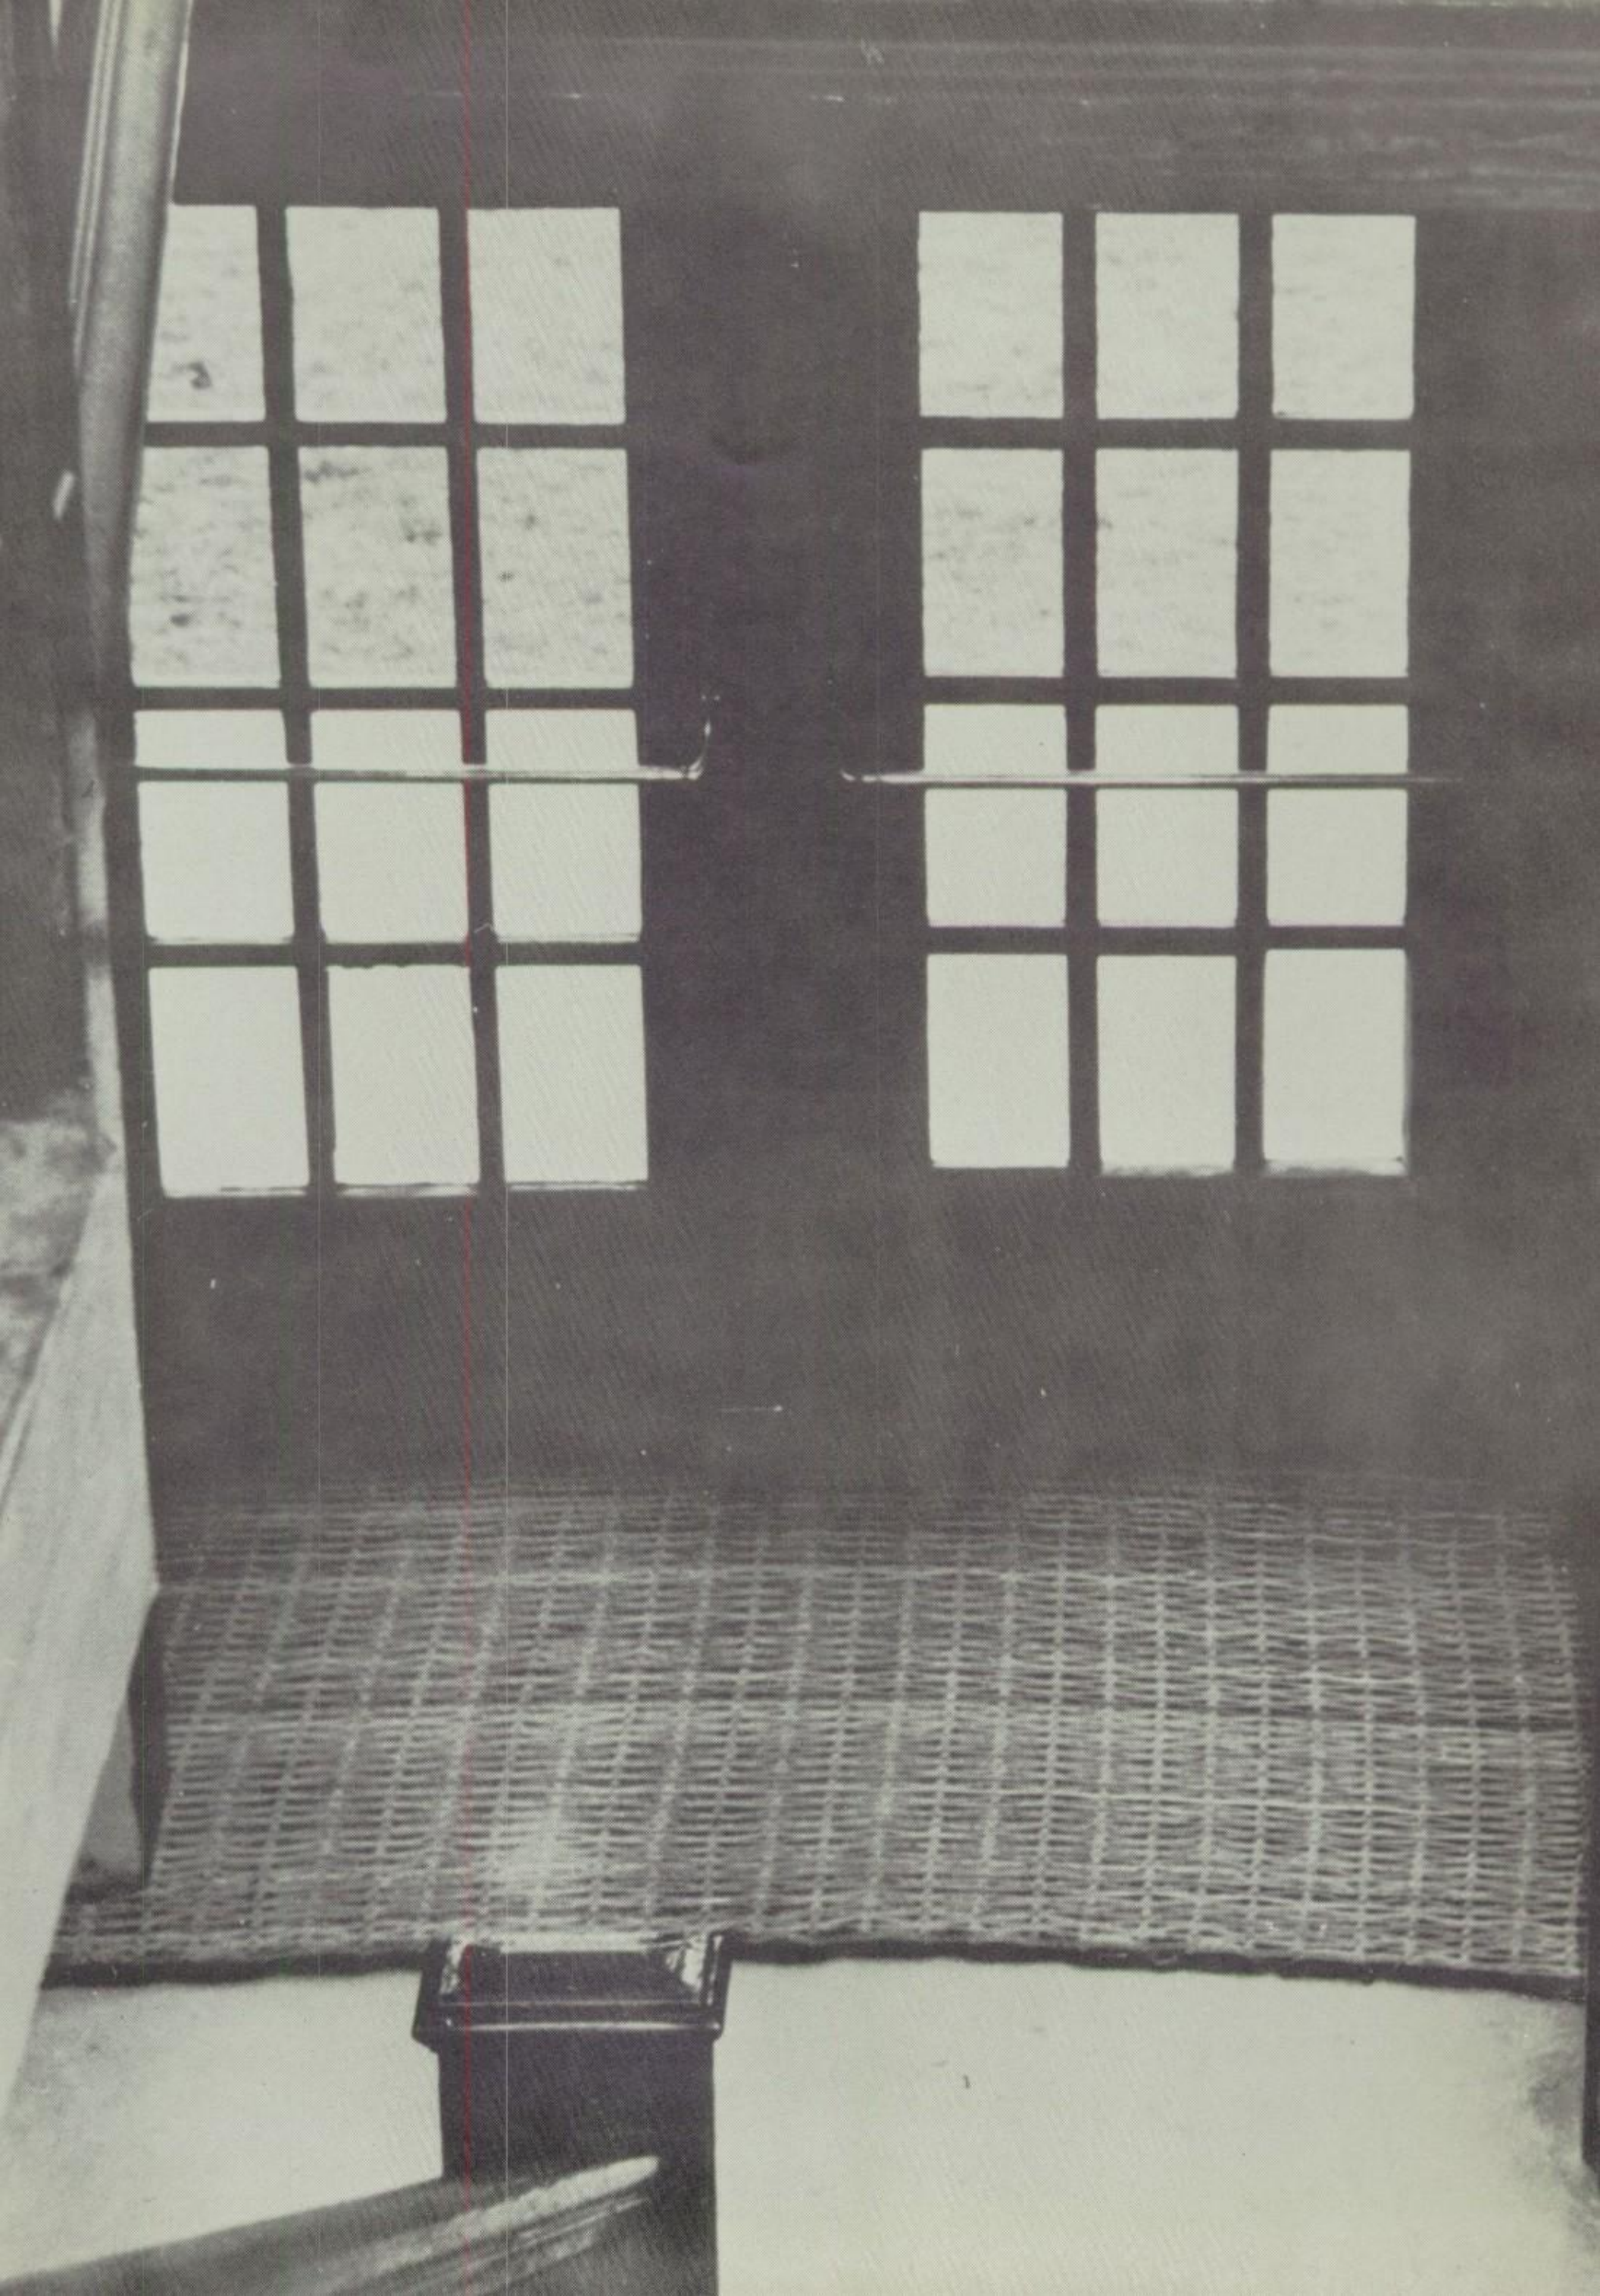

There has never been a time when researchers were not shaping the lives of men. The wheel, the lever, the automobile and the space ship were all equally dependent on the inquiring mind. Progress expands with research. ■ Here at Delco-Remy, for example, our research interest was largely concentrated on automotive applications a generation ago. We could have contented ourselves with just making better starting, lighting and ignition systems. ■ But what we wanted to do was provide electrical energy for the needs of motion—all kinds of motion. At our luncheon tables these days, the conversation is likely to swing from semiconductors and transistor ignition systems to new devices for missile control or electrical power supplies for outer space. ■ We have a new ultra-modern research and engineering building nearing completion. In it, our scientists and engineers will find the most favorable environment possible for imaginative research. ■ What are the rewards of a scientific career? The opportunities are virtually unlimited. But there's something else equally important, we think. It's the tremendous satisfaction to be derived from contributing to human progress. ■ If you have an inquiring mind, it's a career you should think about.

Well, here we are again at the parting of the ways. We have come that last full mile, but what lies ahead? Some of us will return to trod the halls of P.H.S., but for others they will be only a bittersweet memory. We will keep climbing, though, no matter how rugged the rocks become. Perhaps some day we will finish our climb, seat ourselves in an old rocker, put on our reading glasses, and leaf once more through the pages of the 1962 Papyrus. By then, the little hair we have left will be white and our peaches-and-cream complexions will bear signs of age, but the days of our youth will come flooding back as we glance at our adolescent, beaming faces so expertly photographed by Reid's Studio of Muncie and by Willard Studio of Pendleton. The printed pages, prepared by the Delaware Engraving and Lithograph Company of Muncie, will contain so much more for us then. We are now and always will be deeply indebted to these and to the administration and the teachers for their patience in helping us in the realization of a living memory — Something to Sing About.
